

Message from John

When Jesus called people to be transformed He very often called them to be different. When Jesus transforms us into his love, Jesus calls us to a different way of thinking, a different way of being and a different way of living. This can be hard. It's difficult to be the odd-one-out. It can be isolating. It can affect our self-esteem and sometimes our opportunities.

But Jesus gives us His Holy Spirit to empower us and to comfort us. And Jesus also gives us one-another – the Church. In the Church around the world we find role-models of His love throughout history and in contemporary life to inspire us. We find friends who journey with us and genuinely want the best for us. We find people to listen to us, to encourage us, to advise us, to teach us and to mentor us.

In the Baptist Basics pamphlet called 'Radical Dissent'. Dr Nigel Wright, a Baptist Scholar and former principal of Spurgeon's college writes:

"The first Christians were being shaped by different forces from those which shaped the surrounding culture. Jesus and His kingdom made them different and it was their very difference from the rest that gave them their potential to transform people and communities. This was what Jesus meant by calling His Church 'salt' and 'light' (Matthew 5:13-16)"

So let your light shine in His love!

Peace and Blessings, John

Angus and Helen

Angus and Helen Douglas will be coming to LICC on 19th June. Come along and meet them and hear their story at 7.30 pm

Angus and Helen, together with their children, Caleb, Charis and Esther, moved to Nepal in summer 2012. Angus is Development Director at Kathmandu International Study Centre (KISC) where education is provided for missionary children, as well as teacher training for local Nepali teachers. Angus' role involved helping to acquire and develop the new school, which opened just recently, helping to develop the future of the school and overseeing all non-teaching aspects of the school. Angus trained as a chartered surveyor and has worked in commercial property. Helen is a GP and has trained in skin surgery and infectious disease. She advises on medical education in Kathmandu.
